Criminal Action No. 1:17-cr-10243-IT-1

ORDER

December 14, 2022

TALWANI, D.J.

At the December 6, 2022 sentencing of Defendant Christopher Condrón, the court imposed a sentence but delayed entering a final judgment due to concerns raised by Condrón regarding his medical treatment for his Type 1 diabetes under Bureau of Prisons custody. See Elec. Clerk's Notes [Doc. No. 562]; Mot. Requesting Home Confinement As a Result of BOP's Inability to Provide Care and Proper Medication, in a Reasonable and Effective Manner [Doc. No. 553]. The court scheduled a show cause hearing for December 15, 2022, to allow the government and the Bureau of Prisons to address the plan for Condrón's medical treatment while in custody.

On December 9, 2022, the government filed its sealed Motion to Vacate or Continue the Show Cause Hearing [Doc. No. 567], which included a medical and housing plan for Condrón while in Bureau of Prisons custody. On December 12, 2022, Condrón, in consultation with his standby counsel, assented to the government's motion to vacate the show cause hearing based on the government's representations about his care, see Notice of Assent [Doc. No. 570].

The court has cancelled the show cause hearing in reliance on the government's representations that an appointment for Condrón at the Kentucky Medical Center has been scheduled for January 3, 2023, at which the endocrinology clinic will order the appropriate insulin pump, which the Bureau of Prisons will pay for, the continuous glucose monitoring device, and the appropriate branded insulin. The court formally recommends to the Bureau of Prisons that Condon be assigned and transferred to FMC-Lexington as quickly as possible, to allow Condon to attend the medical appointment and to use the insulin pump and continuous glucose monitoring device with Bluetooth capability. The court also formally recommends that Condon be given access to a diabetic diet that includes low-carb options, as recommended by his endocrinologist.

The Bureau of Prisons shall promptly report to the court if these recommendations are not implemented.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
